“Looking at the Future” & “Time and Dimensional Shifting”

These essays are presented for their value to anyone who cares about the future as humanity prepares to make the greatest shift in consciousness and existence ever. We cover a wide range of topics including social-values research, “future-views”, the world situation, and advanced spiritual perspectives.

“GLOBAL AWAKENING means individuals and communities becoming aware of and embracing their true nature – one of interconnectedness, service, and spirituality, as we express extraordinary dimensions of our larger being. “

Timeline Distortions and the Real

Looking At the Future

by John Crawford

This has never been an easy proposition at any time. Part of the reason is that the future is a series of probabilities and possibilities; the other is that there is bleed-through from other timelines or parallels. It has always been hard to separate what is being seen as a probability or as a bleed through from other timelines. This was made both easier and harder by the beginning of the collapse of the parallels.

The process of collapsing the parallels has been going on for several years. The process started with the newer parallels being collapsed into each other, then these unified parallels being collapsed into older parallels (ones created earlier in the flow of time). With each collapse the more negative elements of the timelines were removed and the development of the individual was kept as clear as possible. With each collapse, the developments to the individual were brought in, in such ways as to have the parallel individual think that it was part of its spiritual development within that timeline. This continued up to the present time. Now only a few parallels remain and they are beginning the process of being collapsed into the prime timeline (this one).

There are at least six timelines that are being worked with at this time. Two of the timelines contain a great manifestation of light and suddenly everything is as it should be in regards to spiritual growth. These often give a very rosy picture of the future. Four of the timelines contain elements of disaster in which wars, of various intensities and between different elements, are battling. It shows difficulties in different areas and between different groups some on the planet and some between the planet and beings from space. There are also several different earth change scenarios ranging from total annihilation of all life to minor physical changes affecting some areas. These changes are confounded with the different war visions to give us a difficult mix of visions.

Now factor in the difficulties of possible and probable futures on the prime timeline. This timeline is becoming less and less fixed as to probable futures. Each step we take now has an effect on the possible future and it is continually changing as we change and become more real. Our timelines are collapsing and we are incorporating the lessons learned from the sub-timelines (parallels). Because the remaining parallels are the combined strength of all of the timelines that have been collapsed into them they are having a more profound effect on us, our decisions and our visions of the future. The possible visions that many are seeing are because of this.

We can look at the different visions that are coming forth but at this time it is not advisable to tie oneself to one vision. We live in a timeline that is just now beginning to free itself from the shackles of the past and the past decisions of well meaning beings. The Creator is now coming in to this timeline and we are seeing the effects of this now. Part of the instability in the outer is because of the loosening of the bonds placed on us from the past as well as the freeing us from the probable futures. We are the ones that make the future now by our attention to what is happening and to what we want to happen.

We cannot accurately see the future because it is no longer in the realm of the probable. The future is now in the realm of the possible. It is affected by the past but no longer bound by it. We are making the future by each of our decisions in our day-to-day lives and how we wish to see ourselves. This sounds like the realm of positive thinking but it is in reality the realm of surrender. It is the surrender to the true plan of creation even though we do not know the plan, it is a trusting that The Creator is bringing us to that place where we can be our true selves without the baggage of the past.

As to seeing the future. Nothing will come close to being accurate until after September or October of 2009, then it may be possible to see more clearly but not entirely into the future.

Further Thoughts on Time and Dimensional Shifting Being in the “Now” ...or Being Here to Go?

by Alex Kochkin

Note: Over the recent few years I have been observing time distortions and monitoring reports of others concerning these “glitches”.*

Comments on “Looking at the Future”

Indeed, the possibilities are too fluid to know. That said, humanity is presently and in the short run, on a course of major breakdown with major changes to the human/social-economic-political environments as well as to the planetary/space environments with increasing levels of “disturbance”. The details are unknown and the possibilities are complex.

In reflecting on the situation, there is no sense at any level to maintaining anything of what has led up to the present situation. Thus major “disturbances” to the physical and social and energetic reality structures will help move the transformational process along. One way will be the qualities of “pressure” from lower realms (humans on earth, for example) upon the higher levels of soul-self.

At present, too many humans are reluctant and/or unable to move on in their evolutionary process. There is the allure of the physical level in general, the lack of proper knowing at the human level, and the problem of those light workers who are reluctant to move on because of various well-intentioned but incorrect attitudes or energetic blockages. (This latter situation resembles a type of survivor guilt, cross-linked with distorted notions of compassion that result in no one moving on in spiritual evolution.)

If the present humanity were to morph into a new existence, cleared of much or all of the old, there would remain the detritus and poisons of the old physicality –as well as many artifacts from life under the dark control matrix. There remains the problem of preventing the dark from re-emerging. Given all that is known of the damage to this level of existence and the state of “the real”, at this point the course is the breakdown and dissolution of the old. This may result in much suffering in the short run, at the human physical and emotional level.

The level of dysfunction amongst humans is increasing by “orders of magnitude”. So the major question has nothing to do with the details or sequencing of events affecting humans in the near future. The major question has to do with how humans will exit or transcend the rut in the road they find themselves in. There are no ordinary human solutions and it is at a non-ordinary (higher) level that substantive changes will be initiated.

While seeing the most probable future is increasing difficult if not impossible --especially now, there is a larger level of dynamic at play and that has to do with pressure being exerted from the “as below” to the “as above”. (From the ordinary human realm to the higher self and higher levels beyond that.) At the higher levels there is not the sense of intensity of events and the emotional and energetic effects that are felt in the lower density of human 3d and the response turnaround has not (until recently) been very coordinated with human earth-time.

Intercession by Time has contributed to some people noticing unusual episodes of time loops. They weren't supposed to notice, but some have and eventually start connecting the dots.

There is a wild card in the scheme of things and has to do with “Time” Itself. “Time” is a sentience that is in service to The Creator of All. One of its larger missions has been to facilitate the winding down of the existence of the dark while at the same limiting the ability of the dark to expand. This may be a little cosmically-mind-boggling, but Time has also been intervening on behalf of those beings engaged in working our “what-if and try-this-out” processes for salvaging and correcting this part of creation. Just a little more “time” to help avoid an impending and premature extinction catastrophe, etc. There is also the possibility in the process of correcting creation that it will be “as if” the dark never existed and none of the terrible things happened.

Curious.

“The meal is cooked before the fire is lit”

Start of article notes: 2008 Wed. Sept 17 - End: 2009 Wed. July 29

During a very fluid, transformational period of about one year ago, I experienced a bout of problems synchronizing with the mass consciousness time clock. While these problems are still with me, now I have a few ways to alter my patterns to minimize interacting with mass consciousness “real time” and events. (Of course, coordinating things with a delivery company presents its challenges.)

In my case, there is an effect of a localized time bubble that influences me, and those in closest relationship to me, in any given context. What was to be a short response to some questions and comments posted turned in to nearly an hour and a half. It takes 15 minutes to pick up a phone, dial a number that is right in front of me, and leave a message. Logical mind cannot explain this when logical mind says this should take only 2 minutes. To me it is as if I already made the call. Occasionally it becomes a practical “unworkability” to get in the car and drive to an appointment that is expected one hour hence, even allowing for additional drive time, etc., and having it worked out beforehand on a calendar. Physical interaction with objects outside the personal time bubble become tricky. Two hands needed to pickup an object so as not to drop it due to a lack of temporal synchronization. What happens if your hand passes through a seemingly solid wall? Or your visual field begins to change and bright prismatic like “pixilation” occurs? My favorite is coming downstairs to make my morning coffee. During a series of intense time distortions, it took a bit of focus to distinguish that indeed I had not had my coffee before it was made. But that was the experience, numerous times. Perhaps this is a new Zen Koan: “The coffee is in you before the beans are ground.”

“If you immediately know the candle is fire, then the meal was cooked a long time ago.”

- from the Daniel Jackson character in the SG-1 series upon being introduced to ascended beings.

To some people, they would first try to “fix it”. Try to set the alarm clock in ways to re-mesh with the matrix world. See an eye doctor. This is mistake of socially ingrained habituation, of course.

The more it is possible to maintain a “safe distance” from the matrix world order and mass consciousness time clock (MCTC), the easier it is to navigate existence that is changing, morphing in this way. Of course, one needs to have simple strategies to safely maintain what is needed at present for ones 3d physicality. For example, special allowances need to be made. Simple little things like asking my appointment to phone me 90 minutes prior to aid and confirm a “temporary” re-synchronization for a personal meeting. Thus I am still out of phase, but have some help from the external world to meet me half way and to confirm whether I will be able to keep our appointment. Upon completing an appointment like this, a re-merging into the out of phase time bubble occurs –even while driving. If you are an attentive driver out of long habit, then this is a safe activity. Of course it may seem like hours pass while driving at interstate highway speed through the matrix world time flow. Yet you arrive safely at home port. Perhaps earlier than logically expected, or perhaps not very much later! While I was working on this article in my etheric word processor, I was driving north to Missoula (the “big city”). It seemed like the 40 minute drive was taking 2 hours and most of the way I needed to focus on being present with the driving experience otherwise it felt like the car would simply slow down to a stop and eventually would be found but without anyone in it. When I arrived at my appointment, the person I was with related a curiously similar experience she had only days earlier along the same stretch of road. Curious indeed.

Incongruous as it may seem with the above comments, the past year or so has also feels like many long years gone by, given the intensity of what has been going on at so many levels.

It may be possible to program yourself to enter mass consciousness time clock to go to a job and then exit into your own fluid time/dimensional field. (At some point however, this may become untenable and require more drastic changes to ones physical existence.)

Not only a matter of time flow, these oddities are indicative of the vibrational upshifting going on. At some point, there is a necessity to down shift a notch or so. This is like grinding the transmission gears in your “vehicle” and it can at times become more and more difficult to “mesh” with the old reality constructs as well as the vibrational state of those people running at the old clock and bus speeds. When this becomes painful in so many ways, best not to force the process since you could find yourself temporarily stuck in the wrong gear.

Hazards of “Being in the Now”

In general, I would say that truly being in the “now” moment is dangerous. Necessary and so vital, but dangerous. But there are two major facets to this “now” business. One ties in to the dark side, the other to the light and transformation.

As the upshifting of our vibrational state accelerates, what was past present future tends to merge to single point awareness of what has, is and will be. Initially this can be very unsettling –imagine déjà vu-like moments every day! But this is a facet of the ascension process –for individuals as well as whole creation systems.

“Be here now”, “power of now” etc. has two aspects to it. The first and main one is that “being here now” = being aware, connected, and loving “life”. What constitutes “life”?

Without “spiritual awakeness”, human life on earth is at present an insidious trap of a self-generating false happiness whose only purpose is to keep you in the dark controlled sector. This is also a corollary to the “you create your own reality” falsehoods. Thus you can be blissfully happy, healthy, wealthy, etc. to satisfy the programmed addictions of the human mortal self. To ones higher-self, true-self, etc., this existence has been an imprisonment and those that benefit are those of the dark forces that continue to function. This is entirely consistent with the larger strategy of the dark to trap the Light, blend it with its darkness, and thus control it.

Those who advocate being in the “now” usually mean being more fully present, aware, and consciously connected. Sometimes this can be healthy –and certainly necessary when operating machinery! But if we are also in process of developing “escape velocity” then “being here now” can have some serious downside of maintaining the hold of the control system’s on yourself. Those advocating “being in the now” as a spiritual teaching to follow can be seen as objectively serving as “agents” of the “matrix” world, even though they may not want to acknowledge it. I have always had discomfort over those ever so popular people promoting “being in the ‘now’”. (For whatever you want to make of it, “NOW” also spells “NWO”).)

There is another component to this “nowness” related to a genuine vibrational upshifting with resulting changes in consciousness that involve more of your true-self/higher-self, coming to the fore. Thus past, present, and future tend to blur in to a larger instantaneity and expansive awareness of other dimensions of existence occurs. In these “pre-ascension” states of awareness the quality of “now-ness” requires the discernment of the higher-self to know the difference between the falsehoods and true spiritual growth, especially when returning to the daily function of your human self.

My sense of time is always that there is no time and thus the “to do list” looks impossible (too many plants in the greenhouse needing repotting, and the new water system not hooked up yet. Etc.

My sense of time seems very different than most – it tends toward all now and simultaneous. So 200 years ago seems like recent history to me, etc. and I have trouble distinguish 100 years from 10 years from 1 years, etc. Of course I check dates or years, but my sense of the flow of time is certainly different than most. Has been now for a while. But this effect is getting more and more pronounced for me these recent months. Likewise, earlier this year I felt very much as though I had already lived this year and was already skipping ahead roughly a full year. Indeed! I had to tell myself this is spring of this year and there will be no vege garden if I do not do something about it.

The slow-motion to me is like the ethers become thick. Even ordinary movement like walking from point-A to point-B can be a challenge sometimes. Especially since to my awareness the event or action has already happened, or the conversation already occurred (via inner planes). One person recently called this “dementia-nal”! Even in engaging in simple tasks, my awareness has already finished the tasks and so getting things done requires a deliberate stepping down in vibration to get things done properly enough.

Humor all aside, that is my sense of it. Some of us are vibrationally moving beyond here, but there is still much of ourselves focused around the old body existence, so for a while there are these “problems”. So our fields need to temporarily down shift. Then it is zooming at beyond light speed.

It is one thing to “be here now” in the sense of “we are here to go”. It is another matter to naively synchro-mesh yourself into the gears of the control system. Consider this like a “road advisory”.

We Are “Here To Go”

The “now-ness” associated with true awakening and even ascension is one in which you know the difference between the “reality” of the matrix world and the greater reality of what lies outside of its control bubble. Awakened “now-ness” means that all is simultaneous to your awareness and what exists is knowable.

The “matrix” itself is breaking down and will be suddenly unplugging many people who will at first have no idea what to do or where to look. This is one facet of the system-wide breakdown that is occurring.

Some will find what before would have been unthinkable: spiritual growth and evolution. Others will react with upset and anger and acting out. Some will seek to take from others what the system no longer provides them with. And many will become plugged into attempts at a “Matrix2” –an interim measure devised by the controllers to maintain dominance. One of its main faces will be the new-age/ integral/ new thought/ environmentally-correct tendencies proffered as “real change”. Even the religions will seem to have an overhaul of top officials -- but their replacements will also be part of the controllers’ system – after all you don’t toss out such an effective control mechanism as the worlds “great” religion just because of moral or financial corruption.

The fallen sector is scheduled to dissolve away permanently and the ascension of humanity is on the table and in process. There are very high levels of beings in service to God/The Creator of All who are overseeing this now and our own higher levels of self are getting on board. Unless you are very clear otherwise, it is best to follow your higher self guidance at this time and find ways to take a more active role in your ascension process. It is what we are here for and it is the last leg of the mission for many who came to help with the great liberation.

It is my sense that those who can move on in their spiritual growth and evolution must do so. If you choose this, there is nothing and no one to wait for, and one cannot look back. To look back is to become frozen in place. The ripple effect of the forward movement will be of great service as it will free many more who will “take flight” and enter new states of spiritual awareness that can also inform ones day-to-day existence.

The multiplying effects of the awakening of some, then more, will have a powerful influence upon even more. It is what could be called approaching “escape velocity”. This is awakening.
